MYSTERIOUS FIRE IN WESTERLY

Starts in Telephone Booth at British Club—Loss $4,500,
Insured—Benevolent Ministry of Workingmen's Club
—D. A. R. Chapter Erects Tablet to Mark Historic Site—Republican Club's Annual Dinner.

Early Friday morning when Dr. M. H. Stanton was returning from a visit to a patient in White Rock, he discovered smoke coming from the Potter-Langworthy block, in High Street, and sent in the fire alarm from box 57. When the firemen arrived the main stairway was filled with smoke and there was difficulty in entering the building. The fire was located in the third floor of the brick block in that portion occupied by the British Club. Before it was fully extinguished an immense volume of water had been turned into the building and the result was a total damage to the building of $4,500, and the water of about $2,000.

The damage was confined mainly to the north section of the building, belonging to the estate of the late Joseph H. Potter, there being but little damage to the half owned by Mrs. George N. Burdick and Dr. H. A. Langworthy. On the second floor and directly under the British Club rooms the Young Men's Social club was damaged by fire, smoke and water. Water damage was sustained by Dr. James M. Crowley, dentist; A. N. Willis, insurance; and Miss Lida Thomas, hair specialist. The stores of J. P. Parrell, shoes; the Mills tea store; the Westerly Ice Cream parlor and fruit store on the ground floor also received damage. It is estimated that the loss, aside from the building, will total $2,000, making a total of $4,500, all of which is covered by insurance.

The fire started in the telephone booth which is located near the bar of the British club, all of which is separated from the main hall by a wooden temporary partition. The fire was practically confined to this room, and the contents were destroyed, the four slides being charred, the fire burning through to the corner of one of the rooms of the Young Men's Social club, directly below. No fire reached the roof or exterior of the building. All the furnishings of the British club are damaged by fire, smoke or water, and the loss is greatly total.

Just how the fire originated is mysterious. The auditors were at work upon the books until after midnight, in preparation for a report to the quarterly meeting, which was to have been held Friday evening. So far as known the auditors were the last to leave the club room, and when they left and extinguished the lights and locked the door there was no sign of fire, and as far as known there was nothing of combustible nature in the club room.

There is an ugly rumor to the effect that some one had entered the club room after the departure of the auditors, and that the fire was the work of an incendiary. In substantiation of the rumor it is said that a gallon jug containing about a pint of kerosene was found by the firemen in the fireplace. It is said that the jug was found by the firemen in the fireplace, and that the jug was found by the firemen in the fireplace, and that the jug was found by the firemen in the fireplace.

Friday, awaiting inspection by insurance men.
The Langworthy part of the building on the third floor is not occupied, but every room on the second floor is tenanted, and all either removed their effects or had them packed for removal as a measure of precaution.

While the British club is temporarily out of business by reason of fire, the Working Men's club on the Connecticut side of the Pawcatuck is doing business as usual. While there are some who criticize the existence of the Workingmen's club and who speak harshly thereof upon every opportunity, they are loath to praise the really charitable work of the organization. Some time ago the head of a family named Richards, residing in Mechanic street, abandoned his wife and seven children, and members of the club have since aided the family in numerous ways, including clothing, food and fuel. The club appropriated $40 for the aid of this neglected family. There are other instances of work of charity done by the Workingmen's club that escapes public mention.

Some months ago Phebe Greene Ward Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, asked and was granted permission by the Westerly town council to place a memorial tablet in the Pawcatuck bridge, to mark the old ford, or Indian trail, although the old trail was located farther down the Pawcatuck river, at a point where the new old bridge market is located, in Main street. The Daughters subsequently decided to place the tablet in the Pawcatuck bridge, even if not so prominent as if on the bridge.

Late Friday afternoon, and without ceremony, a fine bronze tablet was placed on the front of the dilapidated fish market building, bearing this inscription in Gothic letters that can be readily read from the opposite side of the street.

"Near this Spot Was the Ford, or Indian Trail, Used Until the Building of the First Bridge Over the Pawcatuck River, About 1711. Erected by Phebe Greene Ward Chapter, Daughters American Revolution, 1899."

An Accommodating Railroad.
Train was unique and very accommodating in the Central Vermont Railroad company, the holding of two trains for the convenience of two people in Montpelier, Vermont, for Chicago. The passengers missed their train at Montpelier Junction through the failure of the railroad employees to announce its departure. They sat in the station calmly while their train pulled out. Appealing to the Central Vermont officials at St. Albans by telegraph, the train was sent back for them and the through train for the west was also held until they could board it. It is not unusual for railroads to go to all this trouble and annoyance to accommodate two people without any special official pull. Frequently the public are inconvenienced to accommodate some railroad official, riding in a private car, or otherwise. It is a little odd to find railroads going to a deal of trouble to please two ordinary people.—The Rutland (Vt.) News.

New Haven.—Pierce N. Welch, president of the First National bank of New Haven, is ill in Berlin, Germany, and his son, Pierce N. Welch, Jr., will leave for Berlin tomorrow. Mr. Welch suffered an attack of pleurisy some weeks ago and pneumonia developed.
